

2007

Circular breathing (Kate Miller-Heidke)

Michael Francis Hannan
Southern Cross University

Publication details

Hannan, MF 2007, 'Circular breathing (Kate Miller-Heidke)', Music Forum, vol 13, no.1, p. 74.
Published version reproduced in ePublications@scu with the kind permission of the publisher.

ePublications@SCU is an electronic repository administered by Southern Cross University Library. Its goal is to capture and preserve the intellectual output of Southern Cross University authors and researchers, and to increase visibility and impact through open access to researchers around the world. For further information please contact epubs@scu.edu.au.

Circular Breathing
Kate Miller-Heidke
Waterbear Records 82876842512
distributed by Sony BMG Entertainment (Australia)

reviewed by Michael Hannan

This six-tracker includes three songs by the singer-songwriter Kate Miller-Heidke and three by her guitarist, Keir Nuttall. With her previous EP, Miller-Heidke had already had some success with her song “Space They Cannot Touch” achieving high rotation on Triple J. Miller-Heidke has an appealing voice and she sings expressively. Her songs are piano-based with subtle arrangements using acoustic guitar, bass, light drums and violin (the latter used particularly inventively). Her lyrics are quirky, witty and poetic, although not always constructed in a way that makes for fluid setting to music. “Out and In” is reflective exploration of a relationship where the partner is very self-centred; “Apartment” uses a high-rise metaphor (“people over me, under me”) to explore the singer’s anxiety that her lover might “get over her”; and “Caveman Days” is a nostalgic homage to the simplicity of living in hunter-gatherer times, but as a punch-line the songwriter amusingly casts doubt on her bloke’s potential as a hunter. The cheeky humour and wordplay complement the gentle and stylish musical backing.