The Journal of Economic and Social Policy is an interdisciplinary scholarly journal that publishes conceptual, theoretical and empirical research aimed to advance the understanding of economic and social policy. In this special issue we encourage a range of article types from academics and practitioners across private and public organisations.

Scholars and practitioners have published on a wide range of topics in this journal since 1996 adding new insights into the traditional areas of economic and social policy. The Journal is ranked in the 2010 Excellence in Research Australia (ERA) list and is catalogued by APAIS, Informit and the EconLit databases. It is an online, open access journal <http://epubs.scu.edu.au/jesp>, with hard copy available by subscription.

This special edition will focus specifically on local government and local government policy in Australia.

The Journal of Economic and Social Policy invites authors to submit manuscripts for a special issue on local government and policy in Australia which identifies, debates, informs, explores and elaborates on implications for future policy implementation and changes.

Papers will undergo a double-blind peer review by a board of renowned academics tailored to this special issue. Final acceptance of approved papers will be contingent on incorporating reviewer's feedback to the satisfaction of the editors.
