What was most useful?

- “everything was useful”
- “rich, owned experiences”
- discussions
- breakout groups
- rotations in sessions
- “well organised resource book”
- training in group running techniques
- section on ‘Communication and Discipline’
What was the main thing learnt?

- Personal aspects
  - “the need to work through your own issues first”
  - “relating is the key to a happy life”
  - “reconnecting with feelings”
  - “able to discuss in greater depth”
  - “men do have an important role (in child rearing)”

- Specific knowledge/skills
  - how to set appropriate boundaries
  - aspects of discipline
  - how to be a better partner or parent
  - importance of communication in families
  - importance of whole community
  - importance of social, emotional and physical aspects of relationships
Feedback on program - groups

- Felt part of a team
- Trust in facilitators. “Big risk coming here”
- Great openness and respect
- Got a lot of understanding from others’ stories
- Comfortable sharing deep secrets
Workers’ knowledge of stages of child development.
Workers’ knowledge of good communication practices
Workers’ knowledge of good child management practices

Pre and post self-ratings of workers’ knowledge of child development

Similar up and down patterns for quantitative ratings of:
1. knowledge of ways to manage difficult behaviour in children
2. communication skills with adults and
3. communication skills with children
4. confidence delivering a parenting course in their community
5. parenting
6. relationships with children
7. relationships with partner
Possible reasons for inconsistent self-rating trend

“I have a lot to learn/can improve/some areas need work” (8)

“Relief that I have done OK/better than I thought/best I could” (6)

Only 4 days – what do we expect?
Suggested improvements to training workshop

- Facilitators
  - make it longer: 2 x 3 day or 1 x 5 day
  - workers do more facilitating
  - maintain flexibility: ‘living and breathing process’

- Workers
  - make it longer
  - more role-play
  - simplified wording
  - more on domestic violence and anger management
  - short video on the philosophy behind the workshop
  - Adapt it for high schools
Where to from here?

“Made me realise how important it is to share your own stories in a group like this before speaking to community”

“I am delighted but scared of how I deliver a package and the effects it may have on their life”
Where to From Here?

- Rollout phase now underway
- Workforce issues
  - Coordination and support
  - New facilitators
    - confidence
    - changing employment
    - finding time
    - mutual support
- Opportunities to expand to other places
Thank You
